CHRIS GUEST

Chris Guest is a London based artist. A child of the 80s, he grew up in inner city Bristol, and wasted a lot of his early life playing 80s arcade games, drawing comic books in his bedroom, and collecting Garbage Pail Kids stickers, when perhaps instead he should've been out getting drunk on park benches with everyone else his age.

As a teenager he exhibited paintings in a gallery in Cornwall that was ran by a family member (probably because he felt sorry for Chris.) Thankfully as far as we know, none of these paintings are still in existence!

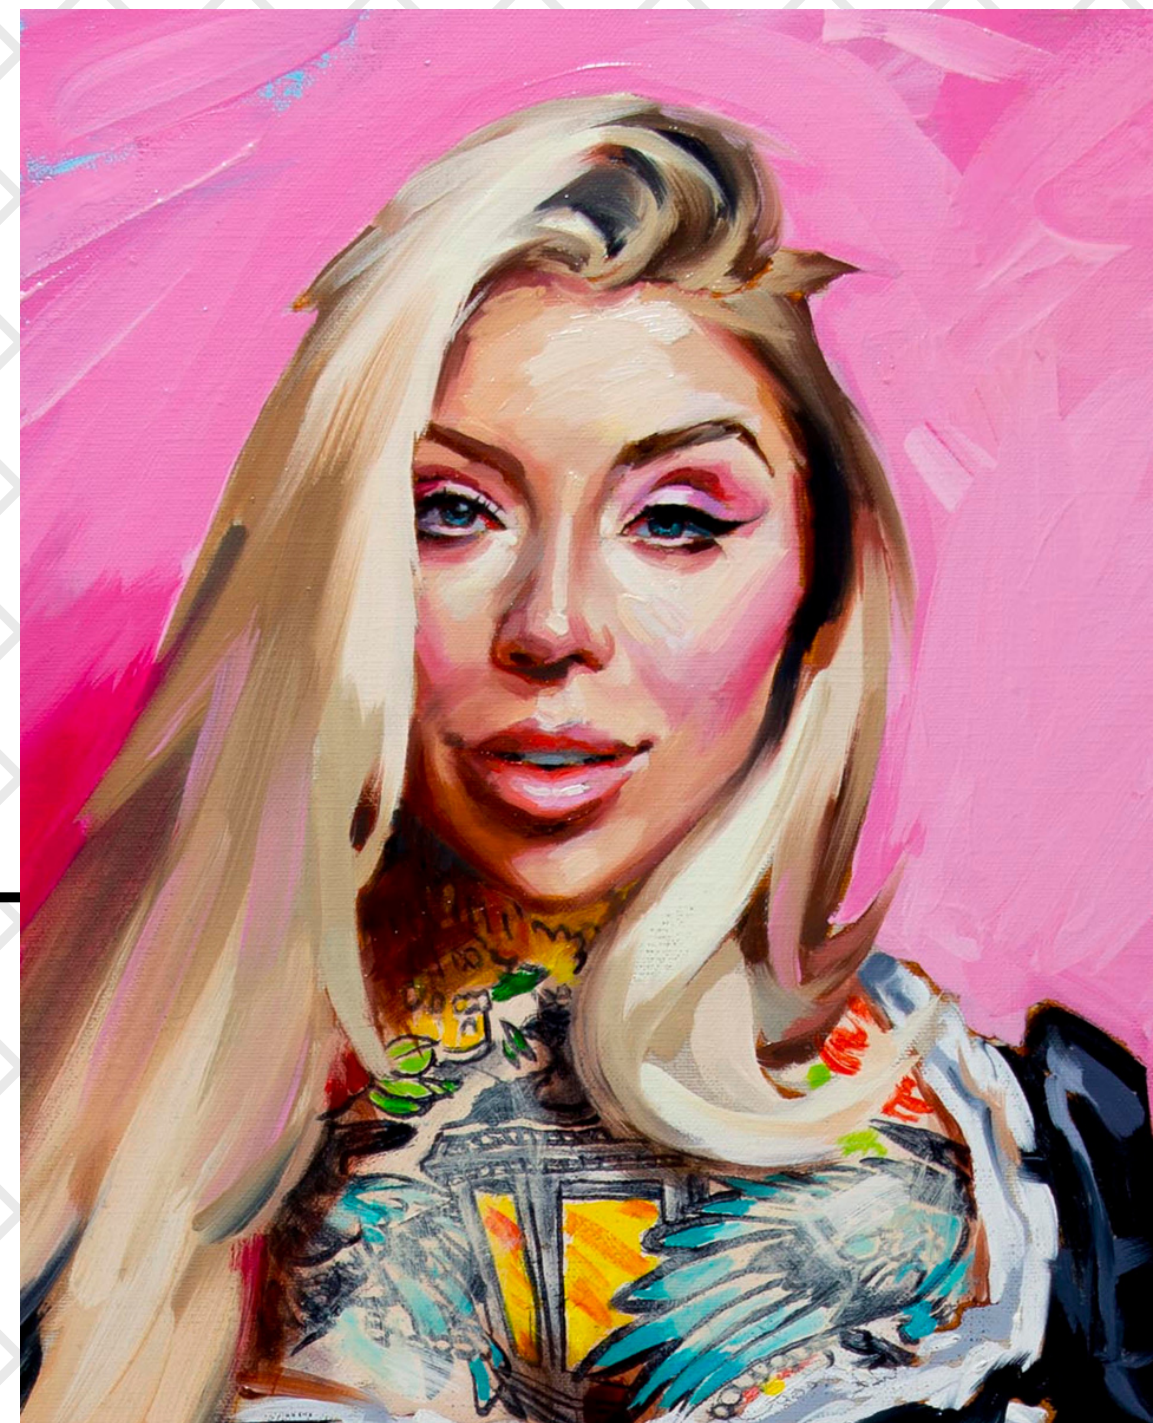

Fast forward 20 years, his originals and prints are collected worldwide, and his art has been featured in many magazines, publications, Art Fairs and galleries all over the world. He holds regular painting workshops around the UK and US, imparting his knowledge on to other creatives. Originally from Bristol, Guest currently lives and works in London with his wife and daughter.

Chris is part of a new wave of fresh new artists blowing up the art historical canon with subversive and stunning masterpieces. Creating both oil and watercolour pieces, Guest is a talented, multidisciplinary artist with a unique style. His subjects are mostly tattooed pin-up style girls posing in various sultry positions.

Having already captured the attention of celebrities, collectors, and investors due to the commercial appeal of his urban-classic style, we are very excited to be representing Chris Guest and offering his pieces to our clients.

"The way I paint is quite classic in style & technique, similar to 18th century painting but a modern subject matter, painting tattooed people".
